A Message from Our CEO,

Through two years of uncertainty, I have seen advocates, volunteers, staff, donors, and community members come together to support survivors of domestic violence, sexual violence, and human trafficking. Team members have had to think fast to continue to deliver resources and navigate challenges that have been new for all of us. Time and time again, our supporters and our team at NLC have shown up to make sure that our participant's needs were met and that survivors may continue on their path to healing from trauma.

Despite all the challenges we have endured together, our mission to put an end to violence and to be a safe haven for families has remained concrete. As Arizona's largest domestic violence shelter, and one of the largest in the nation at 104 beds, we continued to embrace our responsibility and privilege to provide trauma-informed care to some of our communities' most vulnerable women, men, and children throughout the COVID-19 crisis. Through hard work, dedication, compassion, and the generous support from our community, we have been able to expand and create opportunities that reach even more survivors and their dependents throughout the region.

Through the 2021 fiscal year, New Life Center was able to provide over 17,000 safe bed nights for survivors and their families, and served over 1,000 individuals through our residential and outreach programs, as well as our 24 hour hotline. Additionally, the creation and implementation of our P.A.W.S program, Protecting Animals With Survivors, made New Life Center part of the 3% of shelters in the country that strives to keep all family members together, including pets. These efforts led to a decrease in the barriers that exist for survivors seeking help, and made sure that our participants do not have to choose between their safety and their pets safety during such difficult and dangerous times.

Now, in 2022, we are continuing to expand our capacity to reach survivors of diverse experiences with the opening of one of the first sexual assault crisis centers in Arizona for victims of sexual violence and human trafficking. This satellite location in Phoenix will connect survivors with advocates and trauma-healing therapists who are attuned to their experiences.

The New Life Center team remains dedicated to making trauma-informed care, shelter, and resources accessible by continually strategizing new ways to remove barriers in a survivor's healing journey. We are so grateful for the support from our partner organizations, volunteers, staff and donors for helping us along the way and continuing to believe in our mission. The potential to create positive change is within all of us, and when people come together, this potential actualizes into lasting changes that lead to a more safe and equitable community for all.

From everyone at New Life Center, thank you for being part of our mission, and for extending such kindness and support for the families and survivors in which we serve.

Sincerely,

Myriah Mhoon
CEO
